Hi John,

Here is some initial feedback from the customer:

Thanks for your email. Sunday was great thanks! It really has made a difference & noticeably so, especially when the band are cranked up. There was no vague noise swimming around & a much tighter definition to everything vocally. I think we need to do some work with our sound guys on the mix now!

After some initial testing on Thursday results were roughly 20% better than expected with the problem 250Hz RT60 dropping from 5.1 to 2.7 seconds (software had predicted 3.2 seconds).

Thank you again for you and your teams work on this project, I look forward to working with you again in the future.

Jon
